Meatless Days In Cafeterias

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—(AP)—Fifty-two government cafeterias here will drop meat from their Wednesday menus starting tomorrow, as announced today by the agriculture department. The spokesman said that privately operated eating places would be urged to follow suit voluntarily.

The "meatless day" plan started last week, probably will be continued even after the start of coupon rationing some four months hence, it was stated, and restaurants, cafeterias, and householders throughout the country are expected to participate.

City Planning Stagger Hours For Employees

First staggering of hours in the city to meet the increased transportation problem on the Edmonton street railway was announced Tuesday when Mayor John W. Fry introduced a new labor service plan which would start work at 8:30 a.m. instead of 8 a.m. and quit at 5 p.m. instead of 5 p.m.

Mayor Fry said that the city finds it impossible to place any further orders for new equipment and is experiencing difficulty in securing repair parts to keep the present equipment on the rails.

He pointed out that the street railway traffic is running approximately 35 per cent higher than for the same period last year, and it is expected that this percentage will be greatly increased during the winter months.

Mayor Fry expressed the belief that the travelling public will not considerably by having to wait at street railway stops unless the situation can be met through cooperation of employers in the staggering of hours of work.

In a letter from the Transit Controller for Canada, George Stray, to Mayor Fry it is pointed out that the problem is not new but has become so critical that it is no longer just the responsibility of the transit operator. The Transit Controller requests co-operation of transit utilities, municipalities, industries, and the public in an effort to obtain the maximum use and efficiency from power facilities. The remedial measures are being applied in most of the large municipalities and are expected to be general adoption.

CREDIT GIVEN

The Transit Controller said that "credit must be given to the operators of transit service for their resourcefulness in stretching their facilities under the unprecedented conditions which these times have created. These adjustments are bound to reach a point where the general public is in the habit of the public. He agreed with the general public in suggestions of municipal adjustments to meet the drastic situation which is rapidly developing in Edmonton."

Build 150 Warships

New Campaign Might Set All Africa Aflame

By EDWARD W. BEATTIE
LONDON, Sept. 1.—(AP)—British desert forces today halted a new attack by Marshal Erwin Rommel in the opening phase of a campaign which some observers believed might set all Africa aflame.

Rommel's attack, apparently gaining momentum more slowly than previous Axis blows, was believed to be aimed at Alexandria, the Nile and the Suez canal.

It was countered by the powerful Allied forces under command of Gen. Harold R. L. G. Alexander, who was growing optimistic that the Allies might begin a comprehensive drive to take all of Africa, west and north coasts as well as desert—firmly in their grasp.

British information today indicated that Rommel has at his disposal about 120,000 troops and something less than 600 tanks. His air strength is about 100, and he has been reinforced in the past six weeks.

IS NOT SPARRING

Despite the meagre information available here on the fighting in the desert and a tendency by the Axis radio to play down the operations, it is believed that Rommel is not likely to waste time sparring when he knows that his own supply situation is deteriorating and that of the Allies improving.

The outcome of the next few days' fighting, it was believed, may determine whether the Allied forces in West Africa are immediately in the hands of the Axis out of North Africa can be halted.

Axis sources recently have been talking with persistence that an Allied attack on Dakar or elsewhere in West Africa is imminent. It is believed that the Axis is not likely to waste time sparring when he knows that his own supply situation is deteriorating and that of the Allies improving.

All of Rommel's troops are in the front line. Some may be as far back as Bengasi and Tripoli, it is understood. His forces are said to comprise the German 15th and 21st armoured divisions, each somewhat below normal strength, and totalling about 17,000 men; the 18th Italian troops comprise its normal 14,500 men and the 164th Infantry, probably at full strength.

The 18th Italian troops comprise the Ariete and Littorio armoured divisions, each normally at 10,000 men.

If Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's new attack in Egypt signifies the resumption of a major effort to drive to Alexandria and Suez, it would result in the hardest fighting of the north African war. His outcome would be of tremendous importance.

Should Rommel break through, the rest of the Mediterranean would be open to the Axis and the British would be left only with the southern road to the oil of the Middle East.

On the other hand, Rommel's defeat, if decisive, might enable the

Possible Attack on Siberia Is Indicated

By The Canadian Press
Japan's premier, Gen. Hideki Tojo, took over the foreign ministry today, tightening his control of Japanese war policy and dropping the diplomat who negotiated the Tokyo-Moscow neutrality pact.

A Japanese broadcast said a Japanese minister Shigeru Tojo, former ambassador to Russia and Germany, resigned.

For foreign minister, Tojo had replaced Admiral Hiroshi Kato, who had been reported to have been in charge of friendship with Russia, but who was not immediately clear whether his resignation meant a change in Tokyo's attitude, possibly as a prelude to a new pact with Russia.

Recent Chinese and London dispatches have stressed Japan's intention to invade Siberia this fall, presumably at the height of Hitler's campaign against Russia in the west and upwards of 500,000 Japanese troops have been reported assembled in Manchuria along the Siberian frontier.

Observers also pointed out Japan's mysterious withdrawal from east China in the past few weeks indicated her leaders were preparing for new military ventures elsewhere in the Far Pacific war theatre.

British diplomatic circles in London said it was "quite possible" that Tojo's removal reflected dissatisfaction over conduct of Japan's war in the Pacific and Nations victories in the Solomon Islands at Milne Bay, New Guinea.

FINISH BIG ARMS DUMP

Uncover Plot to Attack Allied Troops in Ireland

BELFAST, Sept. 1.—(AP)—Police announced today that a great arm and explosive dump captured near the city of Belfast, Ireland, here Sunday night was being used by the out-lawed Irish Republican Army in armed attacks on British and United States forces in Northern Ireland.

A police statement said the special manifest issued by the I.R.A. calling the presence of United States troops in Northern Ireland an act of aggression made it clear that the "illegal organization" was being prepared for attacks on members of the armed forces of the crown, police and United States forces stationed in Northern Ireland.

Police said 17 persons had been detained for questioning as to the dump, which was being used for the storage of arms and explosives, and a search of the dump had revealed a plan to attack Allied troops in Ireland.

All police have been cancelled since a situation growing more tense as the Irish approached for the scheduled landing tomorrow of Thomas J. Williams, 19-year-old I.R.A. member, for the slaying of a policeman last Easter morning.

The arms and ammunition dump contained a large quantity of nitro-glycerine gunpowder and other explosives.

Strenuous efforts went on, meanwhile, to gain a reprieve for Williams.

Water Now Major Objective As Heat Sears Stalingrad

MOSCOW, Sept. 1.—(AP)—The Russians said today that the Germans had deepened a wedge toward Stalingrad from the southwest and infiltrated that city's northwestern defenses, but emphasized the casualties suffered by the invaders all along the front.

Scattered details reported in the midday communique indicated German losses of at least 48 tanks and about 2,000 killed.

After fighting in which about 700 Germans were killed, "one Soviet unit withdrew to new positions" before the Kholmnia-Stalingrad pincer clash, the Soviet information bureau said. Tank crews were cleared to have repulsed numerous attacks on other sectors of that area.

Red army men still mending the face with the Red army and waged both offensive and defensive fighting in the front and rear of the city.

The heat wave was reported moving up to bolster the Axis assault upon Stalingrad.

A hearing heat wave beat down on the city today, and a dispatch said the only relief found by soldiers fighting in the part of the battle was by smoke rising from the battlefields.

Water was becoming more and more of a problem for both sides because normally dried streams had been dried up by the heat.

In one section, the German command of water had to suffer for a two-day ration.

In one area the opposing Russians and Germans were locked in a struggle for a well situated in non-manland.

Even if night the heat was described as so intense that candles were lit to keep the soldiers from going to sleep.

The heat wave was local, for Moscow was enjoying the cool days since last spring while the west of the capital rain drenched the fighting front, slowing operations.

TANKS CARRY WATER

The battle for water between the Don and Volga became so urgent that tanks were converted into water carriers loaded with everything from pots and buckets to barrels.

At one place the Germans sent four tanks to guard a well. Russian soldiers were declared to have blown up every one of the tanks, enabling Red infantry to capture the well along with all surviving Nazis.

Great Middle East and Bridge Holds Key to 1943 Allied Plans

LONDON, Sept. 1.—(AP)—Three years after Hitler hurled his war machine against Poland and sowed the seed of global war, a key to Allied strategy lay today in the great Middle East land bridge from the Egyptian desert to the Caucasus.

Fighting rages at both ends of the bridge—the swart west of the Nile and the Caucasus.

8-Month Toll in Atlantic

As Sub Menace Now Eased

By JERRY YALE

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(AP)—The battle of the Atlantic, now to major proportions, has claimed 449 Allied and neutral merchant ships and the lives of more than 3,000 seamen in eight months. An Associated Press tabulation of announced western Atlantic sinkings disclosed yesterday, but the number of victims of enemy submarines dropped astonishingly in July and August.

Still missing were at least 1760 crew members and passengers, most of whom may be considered lost. But 13,810 others were rescued and landed safely at western Atlantic ports on July 31. Only 24 merchant ships had been announced as sunk during August.

Figures showed that June, with 109 announced sinkings, was the deadliest month for July. The "U-boat" campaign, which began in the first indication of how the allies were progressing.

SHARP DROP
Even sharper than the recent monthly figure as evidence of the reduced number of sinkings was an announced total of only nine victims for last week, whereas many past weeks had seen three times that number, reported on the basis of the latest figures.

Two incidents provided a further hint as to how merchantmen were faring lately.

J. A. Berlin report admitted that Nazi U-boats were encountering increasing difficulty in the Atlantic waters.

A German merchant insurance underwriters cut cargo rates on certain voyages by five per cent.

Warship-escorted convoys along Atlantic coastal waters and in the Caribbean during August appeared to be more than a match for enemy submarines, according to Allied sea lanes.

Since May 14, not more than five ships of 2,000 tons or more have been lost in the Atlantic. In the Caribbean, only one ship was lost. In the Pacific, only one ship was lost. In the Atlantic, only one ship was lost.

71 SUNK IN JULY
The U. S. Maritime Commission announced that American ships completed 71 sinkings in the Atlantic, totaling 70,300 deadweight tons. In July, setting a new record for the month, the commission reported that the third consecutive month.

Shipsyards, racing ahead of production schedules, laid down tonnage for the month of July, totaling 46 to 70 days, each.

"Appropriate" Tea
Prices Now Set

OTTAWA, Sept. 1.—(CP)—Thomas K. Wade, tea administrator of the wartime prices and trade board, announced today that "appropriate" prices for small packages of tea—now in demand because of rationing—will be set by the maximum retail prices established by the board last January.

Noting that the Japanese blockade did not "anticipate" the small packages, now brought into general use, the administrator said that the following schedule:

For tea with a maximum retail price of 25 cents a pound, the retail price will be 25 cents. For tea with a maximum of 30 cents, the retail price will be 30 cents. For tea with a maximum of 35 cents, the retail price will be 35 cents.

The announcement said maximum prices for four and two-ounce packages of quality tea specified in the January schedule will be determined upon application to the administrator, who will then determine prices on tea bags for ultimate sale to consumers.

About 125 operations are required to make an aluminum can and fittings for a bomber.

Hint Shopping

Hours Will Be

Curtailed Soon

By JAMES MCCOOK

OTTAWA, Sept. 1.—(CP)—The government has hinted that the hours of the Canadian shops—infinitely variety of goods on the shelves and plenty of time in which to buy—will be curtailed soon.

Earlier wartime restrictions have reduced hours of operation for sale, especially non-essentials, and taxation is reducing the amount of money available to spend. A further step was indicated yesterday when the War and Trade Board has invited study of ways of shortening and staggering the hours retail stores are open for business.

SUGGEST ADJUSTMENTS
Prime board officials said that no order on hours had been issued, but that suggestions for hours adjustments had been made. Edgar Burton, retail administrator, proposed that the hours of operation be reduced to 10 hours a day, and that the hours of operation be reduced to 10 hours a day.

It is an indication of the government's intention to curtail hours of operation, but it is not a final decision. The government is still studying the matter and will make a final decision in the near future.

Funny Business

"A quarter's worth of oats, please!"

The cartoon depicts a scene where a man, likely a soldier or a worker, is making a request for food. The humor lies in the stark contrast between the formal, polite language used and the desperate situation implied by the request for a 'quarter's worth of oats'.

The cartoon is a commentary on the hardships faced by soldiers and workers during the war. It highlights the irony of a man in a military or industrial setting having to ask for basic necessities like food in a formal, almost bureaucratic manner.

Federal Grants

To Students For

Special Courses

OTTAWA, Sept. 1.—(CP)—A new federal grant program for students in high schools and colleges for loans or grants to enable them to enter college for scientific and engineering courses are being actively solicited by the selective service branch of the department of labor.

A circular distributed to high schools and colleges with an application form said:

"The director of national selective service has provided for students with high standing and in scientific or engineering fields a cause of financial circumstances to enter first year engineering and science courses at Canadian universities."

Interested students are to communicate with the ministers of education in their provinces.

While the loan or grant will depend on the circumstances of the individual student, it has been suggested as a maximum.

Selection of the students will be made by a committee which will include representatives of the provincial department of education, the university council, the war emergency commission and the director of national selective service.

"The grant need not be for students in physics or chemistry, but in any of the sciences or engineering," said the circular.

Today's Sport Parade

By Jack Cuddy

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(UP)—It was just another big crowd doubleheader at Yankee Stadium until the white-uniformed player wearing No. 7 walked up to the plate in the seventh inning of Sunday's nightcap.

Then the loudspeaker belted out the 50,398 fans: "Ladies and gentlemen—This will be Tommy Henrich's last game with the Yankees until he is over."

This brief statement was electric. A bolt of lightning struck every individual in that vast sweep of humanity—right in the heart. And like an electric impulse, it radiated a terrific, tingling roar of voices that shook the huge concrete and steel structure to its bedrock.

Advertising agents will tell you that it takes a bit of time to sell 50,000 persons on an idea. That's a fact. But this particular idea was sold in a fraction of a second—and tremendously. It was sold to 92,221 civilians and 1,172 service men who for the brief interlude of the game were in the stadium, for getting that audience, existed but our national pastime.

Tommy Henrich, baseball's "Golden Boy," was off to war. POPULAR WITH FANS YOUNG Henrich, who galloped across the right field where the immortal Babe Ruth once cavorted, and who had earned his self not only to the (Rutledge) fans, but to the rest of the baseball world, was going out to fight—by changing his bat for a gun. The change even to the world champion, Yankees—the first prominent member of that notable band was joining up. The guy who was going in was young Henrich, unquestionably the most popular member of the Yankee squad, possibly excepting Bill Dickey.

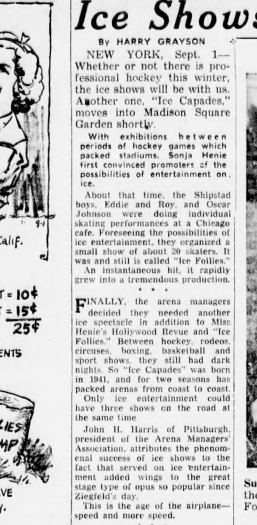

No wonder baseball was forgotten. No wonder the crowd roared and women wept. And many of the men "got things out of their eyes" with kerchiefs. That solid pillar of knowledge, still would be rising from the Yankee stadium, had not the umpires and misty-eyed Henrich taken things in hand. After four minutes of bedlam, Henrich went to bat with two out and with Buddy Hassett abait at first base. Tommy knicked pitcher Phil Crouse of the Tigers for a single. But it gave him his last hit for his duration. But it gave him a perfect game at bat in the night cap—three for three—because he had been walked once, and he was to walk again in the 10th inning when he made his first and last trip to the plate.

In the dressing room, after the game, Henrich, "I didn't know I

Ice Shows Supply Wings

By HARRY GRAYSON

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Whether or not there is professional hockey this winter, the ice shows will be with us. Another one, "Ice Capades," moves into Madison Square Garden shortly.

With exhibitions between periods of hockey games which packed stadiums, Sonja Henie first convinced promoters of the possibilities of entertainment on ice.

About that time, the Shipton Bros., Eddie and Earl, and Oscar Johnson were doing individual skating performances at a Chicago cafe. Foreseeing the possibilities of ice entertainment, they organized a small show of about 20 skaters. It was and still is called "Ice Follies."

An instantaneous hit, it rapidly grew into a tremendous production.

FINALLY, the arena managers decided they needed another spectacle in addition to the Sonja Henie's Hollywood Revue and "Ice Follies." Between hockey, rodeo, circuses, boxing, basketball and sport shows, they still had dark nights. So "Ice Capades" was born in 1911, and for two seasons has packed arenas from coast to coast.

Only ice entertainment could have three shows on the road at the same time.

John H. Harris of Pittsburgh, president of the Arena Managers' Association, attributes the phenomenal success of ice shows to the fact that served on ice entertainment added wings to the great stage of opera so popular since Ziegfeld's day.

Leads Majors in Strikouts

Vander Meer Now Mainstay of Reds

CINCINNATI, Sept. 1.—(AP)—It may startle all who suffered nervous breakdowns every time pitched in 1939 and 1940, but the wheelhorse of the hitless, runless and sometimes hapless Cincinnati Reds is none other than southpaw Johnny Vander Meer.

Johnny, who pitched two consecutive no-hitters in 1938 and then couldn't win a good ball game for two seasons, is repaying Manager Bill McKechnie for his faith in the days days.

Including Sunday's shut-out over the Phillies, his fourth of the year, Johnny has won 16 games—six more than he won in 1941 and more than any other year—and lost nine, six less than he lost in 1941. He has pitched 16 no-hitters to lead all major leaguers; walked 81 last year's total was 136; and he has earned run averages of 2.56 against 2.12 in his double-hitter year.

Red officials say that Johnny, who used to be good when he walked fewer than eight men, is pitching now rather than shut throwing.

Sunday he walked one man, a couple of times, then threw the passed nubber. No longer can a

DECISION OF MAYOR, ALDERMEN UNANIMOUS

Council Opposes Uniform Charter for Alberta Cities

Complications for City On Strathcona Union Is Seen Under Proposed Act

In an unanimous vote Edmonton's city council, at a special meeting Monday afternoon, expressed opposition to the principle of a uniform charter for Alberta cities and instructed its delegates to the Calgary conference to record opposition to any proposal to adopt a uniform charter for Alberta cities.

Delegates appointed to attend the convention were: Mayor John W. Fry, Aldermen James G. Galt, and City Solicitor T. E. Garide.

It was pointed out by Mayor Fry that he had been made by the city of Edmonton for the adoption of a uniform charter, adding that the present charter was reasonably satisfactory.

DIFFICULT TASK
Aldermen Sidney Parsons was of the opinion that the adoption of a uniform charter for all Alberta cities would be a very difficult task, and one that would require a considerable amount of preliminary work.

He stated that even with the adoption of a uniform charter it would be necessary to enact many exceptions to meet the peculiar needs of Edmonton, and that it was necessary for the necessary for the amalgamation agreement between Strathcona and the city.

In a brief prepared by Mr. Garide, it was pointed out that this is not only a municipal corporation in the strict sense, but that it is also a public utility corporation in the province. He reviewed the history of the Edmonton city since its passage in the legislature in 1913, and pointed out that some respects it forms the basis of the amalgamation of the former cities of Strathcona and Edmonton.

It was pointed out by Mr. Garide that if there was one city act, any amendment thereto would, presumably be made by the same measure, and perhaps would require the approval of all cities being introduced by the same measure. This might reduce the amount of amendments by the cumbersome procedure involved in having to get the approval of other cities.

He expressed the opinion that "it seems doubtful whether any advantage gained by a uniform act would outweigh the difficulties in any change."

STUDIED IN HOUSE
The proposal for a uniform charter for Alberta cities was studied before the legislature at its last session and that body passed a resolution.

C. H. Grant, K.C., Plans to Stand For Nomination

With the announcement Tuesday by Charles H. Grant, K.C., secretary of the Edmonton Provincial Liberal Association, that he would allow his name to go before the Liberal annual meeting convention as a candidate in the Sept. 22 provincial by-election, the number of possible choices mentioned for the party has increased.

Mr. Grant, who has been identified with the Liberal Party for many years, stated that at the request of many friends he would stand for nomination to the convention, which will be held in the Masonic Temple at 8 p.m.

It was reported that approximately 20 delegates would be eligible to vote for nominees at the convention. Delegates will be selected at Liberal district meetings held in the various political divisions throughout the city Tuesday night. Convention delegates and their alternatives will be named at these preliminary.

OTHERS RUMORED

Other Liberals whose names have been prominently mentioned as possible candidates are Maj. Nellie V. Buchanan, M.C., president of the Edmonton Provincial Liberal Association, and C. E. Garide, well-known Edmonton barrister. Maj. Buchanan, who is also a member of the city council, is the 61st (Reserve) Field Battery, C.A.F., and is a veteran of the First Great War.

Questioned by The Bulletin Tuesday, Buchanan said he would not allow his name to go before the convention, but Buchanan said he would not allow his name to go before the convention, but Buchanan said he would not allow his name to go before the convention.

Probable Starters Merchants to Assist in Sale of War Stamps

Fuller co-operation from Edmonton's merchants has been promised during the Fifteen Minute For Canada's period set aside at 3 p.m. next Thursday to encourage sale of War Savings Stamps. William A. R. Smith, chairman of the public committee of the National War Finance Committee stated Tuesday.

At 3 p.m. next Thursday wholesalers and others will meet in Edmonton to discuss the sale of war stamps. It is hoped that the sale will be successful.

It is a further reminder that citizens at home are to do all in their power here in Alberta as well as comfortable for the boys overseas as possible. This they can do in part by buying war savings stamps and certificates as often as possible.

TO CONCENTRATE
City merchants will stop operating in their usual manner for the 15-minute period, and will concentrate on the sale of war stamps during that time.

The merchants are not expected to launch a campaign of stamp selling among their customers who happen to be in the store at that time, he explained. They will be there with stamps to sell at the same time they will be offering for sale any of their goods.

It was pointed out that this is an extra effort being made by the merchants for extra purchase of stamps. Merchants are not expected to make any special arrangements similar to those in Edmonton are being carried out throughout all of Alberta's cities and in the rural areas as well.

The 61st (Reserve) Field Battery, C.A.F., and is a veteran of the First Great War.

Instructions were issued Tuesday morning by the city commissioners to John Martland, city architect, to make a survey of the possibilities of converting the building into a residential or business block, whichever may prove the more economical.

Decision as to its use will be made after the survey of the rear future may be converted into residential suites, or offices, as the city commissioners plan to utilize the old police station and fire hall to the best advantage after its evacuation by the special relief department.
